CITY WILL NOT PAY FOR STREET INTERSECTIONS

Petition of East End Property Owners Denied Because of Lack of Funds—New Ordinance Provides for $2.30 Tax

CUMBERLAND BETWEEN 17TH AND 18TH TO BE REENFORCED

Petition of East Cumberland avenue property owners for the city to pay for street intersection paving was denied by the city council at the meeting last night While admiting the justice of the demand, Mayor J H Keeney said the city could not afford the expense.

"A bond issue would be required to meet this expense and this is not possible as the city is now bonded to the limit,"-the mayor explained 'Previous councils have voted for the city to pay for such work for the law provides that either the city or property owners may pay for the intersection paving. The city would be glad to pay this and perhaps it is right that it should if it could afford it."

As the state will pay one-third of the construction cost in East End complications would arise if the city should undertake to change the present plans and the work might be blocked for a long time, he stated.

An ordinance was passed providing than an ad valorem tax amounting to $2·30 on each $100 worth of property beginning June 1, 1922 and ending May 31, 1923 be levied for the following purposes:

To pay the interest and create a sinking fund on the $150,000 improvement bond issue of October 1, 1920, $20, on the $30,000 bond issue of November 1, 1920, $06; the $35,000 funding bond issue of September 1, 1908, $.02; the $12,000 school bond issue of May 1, 1906 and the $18,000 school bond issue of July 1, 1911, $03; the $150,000 school bond issue of December 1, 1921, $24; for general school purposes, $1.00 and for general municipal purposes $.75.

Out of the $2.30 the schools get $1 20 this year, an increase of four cents over last year. A male resident over twenty-one years of age will be required to pay a poll tax of $1 50 each. A penalty of ten per cent of the amount of the property tax will be imposed on those who do not pay before October 10, 1923.

The revised assessment as fixed by the board of supervisors was submitted and accepted by the council. The itemized assessment follows: Lands and lots, $1,263,674; improvements, $2 604,775; personalty, $1,460,622; total, $5,329,071, or an increase of $186 921 over the original assessment. Due to an error in the first addition the revised assessment was first given out as approximately $6,000,000.

A petition by property owners that the block between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets on Cumberland avenue be paved with reenforced concrete in accordance with plans and specifications contained in the recent contract was granted by the council

An ordinance was passed providing that water connections on vacant lots lying within the scope of the improvement program be made before the streets are paved was passed. The ordinance provides a fine for the tearing up of the paving for such purpose after the proposed construction work is finished.

Motion that a street lamp be placed at the intersection of Exeter avenue and Twenty-fourth street was approved.

The report of the andiling committee which had been approved by the council finance committee was accepted by the council.

No action was taken on a proposition to pave the street at the rear of the East End ball park.

The meeting was held in the council room, the school desks having been removed and seats for the council members and for citizens having been installed. With the exception of Mrs. Rosemary Perceifull, all members of the body were present.

WHAT IS AN AMERICAN

While the Ku Klux Klan principles which we might take issue with are far from few, we seek to call attention to one point which the Klan organizer has brought out repeatedly, a point so far-fetched as to be entirely ludicrous.

We hear of Irish-Americans, German-Americans, and other such hybrids," he said Sunday with wild gesticulations. "I tell you there ain't no such animal. A man is either an American or a foreigner." And then he went on to explain his plans for keeping immigrants out of this country.

This set us to wondering. We know that back several generations in our own ancestry there is German, Scotch and English blood. We asked several persons, whom we met on the street about their ancestry and every one of them admitted to hybrid blood. The president of the Kiwanis Club, the mayor, the presidents of the two banks, and other prominent citizens were questioned, and none of them admitted to being of pure American lineage.

Pursuing the matter still further, we came face to face with the fact that our own beautiful city was the direct production of foreigners, that its early history shows it really a "foreign" colony, and that the major portion of the substantial citizens here are left from that same colony of forseeing "foreigners."

Summing all the evidence up, we have about concluded that Americanism is a state of mind rather than blood: that the man who observes his country's laws, tries to lead a clean life, and seeks reforms in an open and honorable way, is perhaps a better American than the one who seeks to take the law into his own hands and looks for reform in secret meetings, behind a pillow case mask.

A DAY IN BARKLEY'S RUSSIA

The writer spent Sunday in A. W. Barkley's Russia (Lynch) and took occasion to make a brief study of conditions. Perhaps the Lenines and Trotskys were asleep, or were out of the country, as we saw no evidence of deposition but everywhere we saw evidences of good citizenship, happy homes modern and sanitary living conditions and everything that makes a community worth while.

A colored fraternity from Benham was parading the city headed by a band and we saw the cross the "international boundary line" without a pasport. In fact, people were coming and going all day as if there was no ruler, no Czar, no Russia, and we regretted that Mr. Barkley was not present that he might see with his own eyes just how far he was wrong when he characterized Lynch as Russia or even worse.

Automobiles of the latest type were continually humming up and down the streets, the drum of a piano here and there and the scratching of a phonograph there, a mother lollying in the porch sewing and happy children playing in the yard, lovers walking in shady groves and fathers spending their loose change buying the youngsters ice cream and soda water; it gave every evidence of the opposite to what Russia has been pictured to us and we suggest that Mr. Barkley really gets acquainted with Kentucky before he attempts to serve as Governor.

We asked one miner, who bore the scars of some years service under ground, how long he had been mining and his laconic reply was "Thirty years." "How do you like Lynch?" we ventured to ask "The Best Damn place I ever worked," and with that we left him to further search for evidences of Russia but, Barkley, oh Barkley, we found them not.—Plain American.

Wish this would hurry up and be last summer.

THE OPEN FORUM

Editor Daily News: Your paper of yesterday under the headlines "Union Summer Church Services" carried some very gross misrepresentations on the part of some one, whether intentional or not, and common honesty demands that they be corrected.

In view of the fact that no representative of the press was present; that the news was voluntarily given, it seems to indicate that the brethren desire to avenge themselves for my leaving the association. They could have given the news item and not "played up" my action if they had desired to shield an "erring brother" (as I was considered).

Dr. Douglas asked me what I expected the public would think when it was published that I had withdrawn My reply to him is here given, "I care little what the public thinks so long as I am persuaded I am standing on consistent ground," or to that effect. He also asked me: "If you go to hell, will you not be disappointed?" I am not seeking popular favor unless they can accord it me without my sacrificing on its altar those truths for which men have died but I do desire that they have an honest statement of my action.

It is stated in the headlines that "Baptists will not join other four churches, etc." and in the second paragraph of the article I am quoted as saying that neither "me or my congregation could consistently unite in such services." In regard to the first, I plainly stated that I had no authority to act for our church; that it was a sovereign democratic body and could do what it pleases regardless of my action or any other individual.

There are no demagogues in a Baptist church. In regard to the latter, I stated that, "I could not consistently enter such services" and at this time I made the statement I had not power to say my people would join. Let me say I am no "Lord over God's heritage" to say to them "if you go to church during July and August you must lay down your distinctive doctrines and go here or there to worship that we may be as one." "Peace, peace, when there is no peace."

Relative to the resolution, I don't understand it. "That we do accede reluctantly to his request." What request? I made none, make none, nor shall I make one. I simply took my hat and walked. That's the story pure and simple.

In regard to my action I desire to say I would not have been influenced at all by a press agent's presence nor any other thing. At its organization or rather its second meeting in the presence of Mr. Yndon of the Daily News, Rev. Farmer of Cumberland Gap Rev. McClure, Rev. Marcum and Commandant Cuthbert, S. A., I made the statement that I could not join the association if it was to be of a unionizing nature religiously, but could join hands with them to better fight civic immorality and let our voice be heard as leaders. Rev. McClure replied, "Why sure, it isn't to be of a unionizing nature. When Northern and Southern Methodists can't get together there is no use trying to get Baptists and Presbyterains and Methodists to unite."

On April 30, at a meeting of the association the question of union services came up. I dissented for the same reasons just assigned, and out of respect for me, the brethren wouldn't go on record as opposed to me. I acsed, as secretary just finished the reading of the minutes of this meeting, when the question was propounded the second time. I took it to indicate that I was preventing the association from functioning as it desired to and that I should not interfere, so I withdrew.

It was an act of an individual. Not a representative of any person or body of persons.

As a Baptist I have that right, and no one has a right to criticize me under the constitution of the United States. I wear no man's collar, take my orders from no man and am not to be coerced. I owe allegiance to God alone and unde Him to my fellowmen.

Wm. L. Powell.

Editor Daily News:—I would like to make a few comments on the speech made by Mr. Cantrill, Democratic candidate for governor last week, in Middlesboro. These are not unfriendly criticisms, however, for I prefer Mr. Cantrill for Kentucky's next governor. Mr. Cantrill gave the three planks of his platform upon which he is making his race:

1. Lower taxes on farms and homes, or a lower assessed valuation.

2. More good roads, and a $50,000,000 bond issue to build them.

3. More schools and better schools. More money, in general, for the development of the state. . . . . .

These things do not seem compatible to me, unless a fourth plank is added: That he stands for the elimination of waste and extravagance at Frankfort. We would like to hear his stand on the unnecessary high salaries for oil inspectors in the state; salaries drawn by sheriffs in excess of the constitutional limit.

We do not want a Democratic machine built on graft. We do not approve of a Republican machine built on graft.

There should be no opposition to efforts made to raise the valuation of property that is under assessed; nor to any requirements made as to publicity, but these must apply to all alike.

Now, as to the ills of the farmers of Kentucky, we must admit they are in a bad fix but it is not state taxes that are ruining them. If it is only state taxes that were crushing farmers of Kentucky, what is it that is undermining farmers in Ohio, Indiana, Virginia, Tennessee, in the great northwest?

None of these are suffering from excessive state taxes, but from the policy of rapid "deflation" of the present Republican administration at Washington; high tariff on the things the farmers must buy; high freight rates, and other national legislation. The question of state taxes is small, compared to these greater hindrances. For instance, a Kentucky farm valued at $25000 and assessed at $20000, with a tax rate of 40c pays into the state treasury but $80 a year.

Mr. Barkley, the other Democratic candidate, proposes to reduce the Kentucky tax rate on land to 25c, and thus reduce the taxes on a $25000 farm $30, the reduction on farms, homes, places of pleasure, dens of vice, will be made up by doubly taxing coal production. So the farmer will have an increased coal bill, and a reduced market for his produce in mining districts for the increased cost of coal production will close down many mines in this state.

What the farmer and all the rest of us need in this state is Justice, Honesty, Economy at Frankfort. Without the assurance of these—and the assurance must be STRONG—the men and women of Kentucky will not vote a $50,000,000 bond issue for good roads.

Mr. Cantrill takes the stand for the present law governing race-track gambling, because he believes it restricts gambling. If he had declared in favor of restricting gambling either by retaining the present law, or by a change in the law that would be more effective, his stand against gambling would be stronger.

Mr. Cantrill should take a stand for a strict enforcement of laws already in existence. In every town and hamlet in the state, gambling is flourishing. The Republicans have been in power four years, and have made no noticeable effort to stop gambling. Many voters are making political capital out of race-track gambling, closing their eyes to gambling all over the state.

AN INTIMATE STORY OF INNERMOST EMOTIONS REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS
Copyright 1923 - NEA Service Inc

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO HER SON, JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT. . . . . .

MY DEAR BOY:

I cannot resist writing you although you have not answered my last letter but I am sure I know the reason why. Do not be too proud, son, to confide in your mother.

She understands you, John, better than anyone else in the world. All mothers understand, John. If children would only take their mother's advice oftener they would be able to avoid much trouble.

I would not write you this, only dear Priscilla Bradford has been in New York for a week and she wrote me that the other night she saw Leslie at the Midnight Follies with Karl Whitney. They were alone and Leslie seemed just basking in the devoted attentions. Dear Priscilla says that Leslie had on a low-cut gown with her arms bare.

Have you quarrelled with Leslie, John? Why did she meet this oldtime lover of hers in New York?

Dear Priscilla said she knew that you were not in town as Leslie looked so perfectly unattached and fancy free.

Oh John! I did not tell you so, but I felt that you were making a great mistake when you married this pleasure-loving, frivolous girl. Dear Priscilla tells me that in this public place Leslie was smoking a cigaret and that she also followed that shameless custom which many foolish women practice of rouging and powdering her face where all may see.

Dear Priscilla wrote me that she even took out a stick of red paint and smeared it over her lips and that she evidently asked Karl Whitney if it were put on properly, for she made a little pouting motion with her lips and he nodded with a smile. Then they floated off in a dance.

John, I believe this that I am telling you might be made of enough importance for you to secure a divorce from your misguided wife and I am sure that notwithstanding her great reluctance, dear Priscilla would tell this on the witness stand if you should deem it necessary for her to do so. Dear Priscilla has never been one to try to avoid a duty no matter how repugnant it was to her gentle soul.

You know that as a rule I do not believe in divorce but I know that you are suffering and unhappy and I believe that after Time had softened the hurt that Leslie has given your pride, you would realize you never really loved her and you would also really really loved her and you would also realize that there were other girls in the world who were more worthy of you and who could make you happier. The right kind of a girl would never think of looking at another man when once she is married.

I have given the contract for painting the house as I knew, being your mother, I had only to ask anything of you my son, to receive it. If Leslie has left you, you certainly will not contribute to her support. Let her get it from her rich father if she cannot get it from her rich lover.

Write me immediately, John, for I shall be very anxious to know if I am the first one to open your eyes to what is going on in New York and if you and Leslie had quarreled before she left.

Dear Priscilla Bradford tells me that she is going around to the hotels she tomorrow and see if either Leslie or Karl Whitney is registered at any one of them.

Sahara Desert has her water problem but we have our prohibition.

The old village store which kept everything has moved to town and calls itself a drug store.

The Atlantic has its fish, but we have our oil stock buyers

Things could be worse. Suppose July Fourth was Christmas and you had to dress as Santa Claus?

Quickest way to make both ends meet is eat a green cucumber.

GET OUT IN OPEN AS A MOTOR-CAMPER.

Not the least important department of the auto-camper's equipment is the combination kitchen and dining room without which camping would be impossible. This is perhaps the hardest part of the outfit to make up owing to individual tastes and the number of articles needed.

For the cooking an ordinary party will require the following: two frying pans, two or three stew pans, coffee pot two or more cooking spoons, one long-handled cooking fork, a grill with long handle and perhaps a tea pot, and big pail for drawing water.

The folding army mess kits are very compact and useful. A large dish for washing dishes is essential.

Provision Lists

As to the material of cooking utensils enamelware stands a good deal of punishment and is easy to keep clean. Aluminum has the advantage of light weight but has a tendency to conduct heat and is not so strong as enamelware.

One can start his trip with his own notion of what provisions may be needed. But here is a list for a small party which gives an idea. Pound of butter (in tin), bag of flour and one of prepared flour carton of salt, five pounds of sugar pound of coffee, dozen eggs, pound of bacon, can of condensed milk lard, cereal and seasonings.

Several items could be enlarged but generally the motorist has no trouble in meeting stores on the way and too big a burden can be avoided.

An ice basket or portable refrigerator is really a necessity. An ice basket will keep things quite cold for 24 hours on 5 cents worth of ice.

Some sort of table is needed for dining purposes. The common folding card table is fine for this and take up little room. A linoleum cloth will keep it clean. Folding chairs or stools make eating more comfortable.

Many New Ideas

There are several collapsible dining outfits on the market which solve this whole problem of chairs and table. They are designed for this special purpose and are easily carried.

It is one of the delight of the pastime to buy fresh poultry, eggs and milk from the farmers along the way. Prices are generally much lower than in the city markets and also the goods are fresh.

One might add a selection of canned goods to use in an emergency. Canned baked beans, tomatoes, soups asparagus and fruits may come in handy, especially when ready cooked foods are needed in a hurry.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my deep appreciation and gratitude to my friends for their kind consideration and sympathy during my recent sorrow and for the many beautiful floral offerings which they sent.

Mrs. B. G. Allison.

STADIUM FUND STILL GROWING

Wind Up of Campaign This Week—Only $75,000 More To Raise

More than $125,000 has been subscribed during the past week to the $200,000 campaign of the University of Kentucky for a stadium, basketball auditorium student loan fund and Patterson memorial.

Lexington leads the State with more than $60,000 subscribed to the fund in four in four days' canvassing. This city expects to reach its quota of $85,125 by Wednesday of next week at the latest.

H. B. Hedges, chairman of the Philadelphia, Pa. Alumni Committee, reports that on the first day of the campaign in the Philadelphia district, four subscriptions were taken totaling $950. No one refused to subscribe.

Warren County reports through its chairman, Virgil J. Pritchett a total of $560. for the first day's work. This county will reach its quota by next Tuesday night at the latest.

Henderson County has wired that $1000. has been raised up to last night with the strongest half of the campaign scheduled for next week.

Larue County with J. V. Coleman at the helm, is coming across with $1000.

Harlan County reports that their initial pledges totaled $700. and that they are still going strong.

From Buffalo N. Y. comes the wire; "$1180 already subscribed. Everyone enthusiastic about the campaign."

Cincinnati started with an initial subscription of $2000. which was increased considerably during the week.

In one night, Pineville pledged $2000. with a resolve to double it in the next few days.

One of the most outstanding bits of work was accomplished by a student of the University of Kentucky who returned to his home county of Nelson and and in five days secured one half its quota.

This week is wind-up week, and it is expected that no difficulty will be experienced in securing the needed $75,000.

Practically Extinct

If you've never found your work a trifle zestless,
As you felt a little longing for the trail;
If you've never known a fever that is restless
And a sense of growing moribund and stale;
If you haven't ever thought you'd like to ramble,
Leaving everything behind that you have known;
Dropping all the safe-and-sane stuff for a gamble,
Risking everything and anything you own;

If you've always been entirely calm and steady
With the firmness of a lighthouse on a rock,
If the springtime hasn't ever made you heady,
If your pulses beat as certain as a clock;

If no silly roving madness ever thrills you,
If your sanity and prudence are your guides,
And no thought of breaking traces ever fills you,
If you're just as safe to count on as the tides;

If you've planned your life with absolute acumen
And you've never deviated not an inch;
You're undoubtedly a useful man or woman
And to bet upon your progress is a cinch!
If no wild and woolly notions ever harry you,
You can pride yourself on being cool of head,
But they really ought to take you out and bury you,
For although you may not know it you are dead!

TODAY'S RECIPES

PATRIOTIC SANDWICHES

Trim crusts from a loaf of white bread, nor over a day old, and cut the bread into thin slices. Cream one-half cup of butter until soft, add three pimentos (canned red peppers) which have been rubbed through a sieve. Season well with salt and paprika, spread the bread slices with this and roll as tightly as possible without breaking the bread.

Wrap in a damp napkin until time for serving. Then tie together three roll with narrow red, white and blue ribbon. Place on serving plate and garnish with crisp watercress or lettuce.

Note: If the tricolor ribbon cannot be obtained, narrow blue ribbon would carry out the idea of red, white and blue. Also if the bread does not cut easily, spread with the butter and pepper mixture before cutting.

Puzzling Plays

By Dilly Evans

THE PLAY

Doing the unexpected often stirs up an argument. In the following play, both the base runner and catcher performed out of the ordinary.

Three men are on the bases, two outs two strikes and three balls on the batter. The base runners are off with the start of the pitch. Umpire rules the pitch a ball, making the fourth ball on the batsmen, entitling him to first, and an other runners to advance a base.

In the advancing to third on the base on balls, overruns the bag.

The catcher noticing this, makes a snap throw to third, and the ball is put on the runner before he can get back to the bag. This makes the third out of the inning, retiring the side.

In the meantime the runner on third who is entitled to score has not yet touched home plate, when the third out is made. Hearing the umpire declare the runner out at third he stops when within about ten feet from when within the plte and starts for his position in the field. While the two sides are changing fields he comes back from his position at first base, touches the plate and then goes back to the field.

What about the run?

THE INTERPERETATION

The run counted, even though the runner from third did not touch home until between the innings.

The fact that he failed to touch home went to his position at first base in the field, and then retraced his steps back to the home plate, really has nothing to do with the legality of his run. With the bases filled, the base on balls to the batsman entitled him to score. The fact that he scored via first base means nothing. He just covered that much more ground in reaching the plate. It is impossible to take aways something to which he was entitled.

While the side was retired before he actually touched the plate yet his run became legal the moment the base on balls was given the touching of the plate being a mere formality to complete the play.

QUICK ACTION BRAKES
EXTRA LARGE AND EXTRA SAFE

In the construction of Dodge Brothers Motor Car, every consideration has been given to the owner's safety.

This is particularly evident in the brakes, which, with their 14-inch drums and 2¼ inch lining, are appreciably larger than the average. The extra surface thus provided develops greater friction when the brake bands contract over the drums—and it is this friction which stops the car.

Connecting levers are designed to transmit the maximum of power with the minimum of effort. The slightest pressure on the brake pedal has an immediate effect. This pressure is distributed evenly between the two rear wheels by a highly efficient equalizer, which prevents skidding because it retards both wheels simultaneously.

And the brake bands grip evenly all around the drums. This protects the lining against irregular wear and enables the driver to stop quickly, quietly and safely.

BUILDING

Build a Home! The Shortest route to prosperity and happiness. Build a Home!

Middlesboro Needs A Brick Yard

This is the opinion of all men interested in building projects and of others who have studied business conditions. Builders who have bought brick have sad memories of high prices paid due to expensive freight shipments from distant places.

Some time ago an attempt to promote a brick plant near the Y of the L. and N. railway was made. Either because sufficient capital could not be raised to finance the enterprise or because the promoters lost interest in the proposition, it was abandoned.

Sample bricks were made then and submitted to authorities in the work. It was said that the clay is well adapted to the manufacture of briks, that not only bricks for building but also those for tiles can be made from the clay at that place.

Such an enterprise will necessitate a large sum. It is estimated that a plant with a capacity of 100,000 per day would cost about $100,000. One with a smaller capacity could be established for a proportionate lesser sum.

There is a brick plant at Rose Hill which has a fairly large output and many of the bricks used here are obtained from ther. Others are brought from Knoxville and Nashville. Sometimes it is difficult to ger them at all and building work here is often delayed for lack of deliveries.

There has been a great deal of comment here on the high prices of building materials. It is said that they are more expensive here than at other town If this is true the discrepancy is due to the fact that everything that enters into construction work must be hauled for long distances. The lumber comes mainly from the south, the nearby forests where the timber is accessible being almost entirely depleted. Brick, cement and concrete blocks are heavy and the freight rates are high. Not only is the cost greater because they must be shipped long distances, but the deliveries are so uncertain that it is impossible to make definite plans for bulding.

OUT OF LUCK

Cain't see why I'm going away today
With the folks up north to stay,
The summer through.

Why when our school is out and I am free,
I'm glad I'm livin and don't agree
With ma and dad.

Who say "They cannot stand the heat another day, they and me
Must go away to somewhere near the sea.
To just get cool.

Why I could stay round here and have one glorious time,
The summer through, swimmin' 'n think up in the trees I climb
About a lot of things.

What's summer for I'd like to know,
Seems it's only sent to make a feller's parents go
Away some wheres;

Got to leave my friends and Fido too,
About every year I get blue,
When summer comes.

'N then when winter comes and pipes begin to freeze,
'N pa starts sneezin' with the first cold breeze,
We go away.

Just when skatin's fine and lots of snow,
'S invitin', boys to cast you know,
Again ma packs,

The family off to summer climes an' sultry days,

Ain't parents funny? Don't they have peculiar ways?

BUILDING NOTES

Jeff Moyers is building a nice five-room bungalow at the Junction.

A building which will be used as a store s being constructed by Haley Bros. at the corner of East Cumberland avenue and Tenth street.

W. M. Fletcher is erecting a garage at his dwelling on the Brewery road.

Charlie Evely has recently built a handsome six-room residence house in the West End.

A series of steps has been made up to Queensbury Heights from the end of Nineteenth street.

Tom Colson is completing a building at the rear of his lot which will be used as a garage, coal-house and wash-house.

Milt Overton is building two small houses in the West end.

Long painted benches have been placed around the lawn of the Martin-Page factory for the employes.

The brick work is practically completed on the two brick bungalows being constructed by Sam Weinstein on Chester avenue. The roof is now being laid on one.

Gibson Bros. have bought from A. F. Whitfield twenty three lots in the Westview of the city. The new owners will improve these lots by laying sewers and cutting alleys. The city has let a contract for the building of a street in front of the lots on Petersboro avenue and the county will biuld a road on Dorchester avenue.

Gibson Bros. will build some new bungalow on some of the lots; some of the other lots will be sold to those who will promise to build nice homes.

The opponent drives his ball far over to the right of the course where it lodges underneath a wheelbarrow. On reaching the ball he picks it up and places it two club lengths away from the obstruction. The player contends that he should have moved the wheelbarrow, but that would not have improved his lie. What is the correct ruling?

The wheelbarrow should be removed providing the ball was not touching the obstruction. However, it should not be moved more than a club length from the ball, which would enable you to make the stroke. If you move your ball in moving the obstruction you must replace it without penalty. If the ball touches such obstruction, you may lift it and drop the ball as near as possible to where the lie is made but not nearer the hole.

The opponent tries to improve his lie while in the rough by bending back the tall grass, which will enable him to get to the ball without any interference Is he permitted to do this?

The opponent has no right to improve his lie, whether it is in the rough or not. Long grass is not a hazard unless it is in the boundaries of a hazard.

While New York leads in both baseball leagues, it trails in the Epworth and Anti-Saloon Leagues.
